Sexual Assault
It is a crime for anyone to rape or sexually assault you, whether they are a stranger, boyfriend, a lover, a husband, a domestic partner or an acquaintance. You deserve help. If someone has sexually assaulted you and you want to report the crime, call 911. The evidence of the crime is on your body clothing, and the location of the assault. In Santa Cruz County there is a program in which a nurse will examine you for physical injury and collect evidence in a sensitive manner. You have the right to have a sexual assault victim counselor present during the exam as well as a support person as long as the presence of those persons is not determined to be detrimental to the purpose of the exam. More evidence will be available if you do not shower, bathe, or wash your clothing/bedding or clean the location of the assault. Law enforcement will collect items and material, which may contain evidence for a possible criminal prosecution. You can call a crisis line to get more information and support whether or not you choose to report.

Domestic Violence
It is a crime for anyone to hit or hurt you. Domestic Violence can occur between people of any sexual orientation who are married, separated, dating, have dated, are living together, have lived together or have children together.

You Need to Know
Even when suspects are arrested, they may be released from jail at any time. If you feel that the suspect may return to hurt you or your family, ask the officer for an Emergency Protective Order, which will order the suspect to stay away for five court days. The officer can protect your name from public record.
For information about shelter, filing a Domestic Violence Restraining Order or other services in the community, you may contact Walnut Ave. Women’s Center or Women’s Crisis Support/Defensa de Mujeres.

You have the right to request an order from superior court to file a petition requesting any of the following orders for relief; an order restraining the abuser from battering the victim and other family members, an order directing the abuser to leave the household, an order preventing the abuser from entering the residence, school, business, or place of employment of the victim, an order awarding the victim custody of a minor child or children, an order restraining the attacker from molesting or interfering with minor children in the custody of the victim, an order directing the party not granted custody to pay support of minor children if that party has a legal obligation to do so, an order directing the defendant to make specified debit payments coming due while the order is in effect, and/or an order directing either or both parties to participate in counseling.

You may ask the district attorney to file a criminal complaint. Contact the Santa Cruz Police Victim Advocate at 420-5827 or the Victim Witness Assistance Program at 454-2010 for assistance.
You also have the right to file a civil suit for losses suffered as a result of the abuse, including medical expenses, loss of earnings, and other expenses for injuries sustained, damage to property, and any other related expenses incurred by the victim or any agency that shelters the victim.
